Erik Griffin, a first generation Los Angeles born comedian/actor, is hard working, ambitious, talented, and most importantly “funny” to quote his mother. He has been performing comedy off and on for the past 12 years.

Erik’s future looks very bright. Most recently he has obtained national exposure performing in the ALMA nominated Payaso Comedy Slam seen on the SHOWTIME and COMEDY CENTRAL networks, Live at Gotham on COMEDY CENTRAL, Last Comic Driving on NBC, Comics Without Borders on SHOWTIME, nationally syndicated Comics Unleashed, and can be seen featured in several national commercials. He highlighted his talent in the 2008 at the Just For Laughs Montreal Comedy Festival to overwhelming reviews. Erik was featured at the 2008 NACA National Conference, the 2007 East Regional and 2006 NACA West Regional Showcases and has performed at several colleges nationwide.

Besides opening for Dave Attel in Washington and Damon Wayans in Irvine California, Erik is now headlining all over the United States and Canada. Other accomplishments include winning the Northern Lights Comedy Contest, a semi-finalist in the 2005 International Seattle Comedy, attended the 5th & 6th Annual Calgary Comedy Festival as well as a runner-up in the 2005 Rocky Mountain Laugh- Off.

With his multicultural background, a Central American Caribbean mother, a father of European descent, Erik blends well into the North American landscape particularly in this era of cultural diversity. Erik’s comedy is full of hilarious observations about life, love and self-evaluation bringing together all ages and ethnic backgrounds, which makes for an uproariously good time.
